YESTERDAY BANNER DAY OF BIG FAIR

Over Thirty Thousand People on Grounds.

FIREWORKS TONIGHT

Midway Packed With Visitors Yesterday Afternoon, While Grandstand and Inside of Race Course Were Well Filled—Everybody Jolly and In Best of Humor—The Racing Enjoyed by Many—Many Remained For the Fireworks—Today the Final Day of Fair.

Yesterday was the most successful day in the history of the Central Carolina Fair Association, not excepting Thursday of Centennial week, which by far broke all previous records. Had the attendance been mueh greater yesterday the management would have been puzzled to have found a place for the people to stand, much less sit. During the afternoon the grandstand was packed for the races, while it was well nigh impossible to navigate on the midway. This street was literally packed and jammed with a mass of humanity, everybody being in the best of humor and enjoying the occasion to its fullest extent. And several thousand flocked into the central field in order to see the free attractions. The attendance was estimated at different figures, ranging from 25,000 to 40,000. It is believed that 32,000 is a conservative estimate. And counting the attendance last night for the fireworks this figure would be added to considerably.

The weather was ideal, the temperature rising enough during the afternoon to prevent it from being uncomfortably cool last night. The grounds, while not wet, were sufficiently damp to prevent the dust from rising and making the atmosphere uncomfortable.

Today will see the close of the annual event and while the attendance will not be as large as on yesterday it is expected that with good weather the attendance will be much larger than is usually the case on the last day of the fair. All the free attractions will be given, as will the fireworks tonight. The racing this afternoon will be equal to that seen during the past three days.

The Fireworks.

Thousands witnessed the fireworks last night and all were more than pleased. This attraction easily surpassed anything of the kind ever seen in Greensboro. The battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac was most realistic, while the specialty stunts were equally as good.

Tonight an entire change of the fireworks will be made and Mr. Angelo promises that the final attraction will be the best of the three. The fireworks will begin tonight at 8 o'clock and will last for about an hour. Besides being something new the scenes portrayed tonight will be a fitting close to the fair. Before the exhibition the Cornellas will go through their program of athletic stunts. Secretary Daniel stated last night that every patron of the fair should see this final attraction as he had the assurance of Mr. Angelo that the exhibition would eclipse that of last night.

Yesterday's Racing.

There were five races yesterday afternoon, including a running race that was pulled off in addition to the regular schedule. The results were as follows:

First event—2:12 pace, stake. Purse $500. Time 2:11 3-4. First money My Shady Belle, entered by J. R. Green, Winston; second St. Louis, entered by F. A. Burgess, Ronceverte, W. Va.

Big Crowd Handled Finely.

Despite the fact that a large majority of the fair visitors had to be transported to and from the grounds yesterday there was not the slightest delay in the transportation line. The Southern operated trains to the grounds every half hour, while the Public Service Company maintained a ten minute schedule. Sometimes the street car company had four cars running together and a larger portion of the day triple headers were pressed into service. Not a single complaint as to lack of adequate transportation facilities was heard.

But Little Drunkenness.

Despite the crowds here for the Fair, but little drunkenness was noticed. At 10:30 last night the police had made but one arrest for drunkenness and had not made any other arrest during the day or night. The absence of drunkenness and disorder was declared by the police and other observers to be noteworthy.

Remains Carried to New York.

The remains of Mr. Leopold Clapper, whose death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. B. M. Weiss, South Elm street, on Tuesday, were carried to New York last night on No. 38 for interment today. Mr. Clapper was 81 years of age and is survived by four sons, Messrs. Sol, Henry, Isador and Max, of New York, and one daughter, Mrs. Weiss, of this city. Death was caused by old age.

Electric Cross At Hospital.

While in the city this week Mr. Bird S. Coler, president of the Public Service Company, had a large electric cross placed on the dome of St. Leo's Hospital and the cross is lighted each night until nearly midnight. The cross is seven feet in height and the arm is three feet in length. When lighted the effect is quite striking and the cross can be seen from elevated places in the city.

Putting In New Machinery.

The Durham Can Manufacturing Company, whose plant is located a few doors south of The Telegram, is putting in new machinery which will treble its capacity. Its capacity now is 500 gallon cans per day.

PRIZES WON BY BOY FARMERS

Those Who Successfully Competed For Prizes Offered by Fair Management For Best Specimens of Corn From Each Township—Boys From Eleven Townships In Contest—Some Fine Specimens of Corn on Exhibition.

Members of the Guilford County Boys' Corn Club from eleven townships have specimens of corn they raised on exhibit at the fair in competition for the prizes offered the boys in each township by the fair management. The corn is all of good quality and some is very fine indeed. The total of prizes offered was $90, $5 for each township, this being divided into first and second prizes. Following are the winners:

Morehead township—First prize, Earl Iddings, Pomona; second prize, Hilliard White, Greensboro, R. F. D. 7.

Washington—First prize, George A. Wagoner, Gibsonville, R. F. D. 1; second prize, J. Ervin, Gibsonville, R. F. D. 1.

FAMOUS HUMOROUS LECTURER

George Stuart To Give His Noted Lecture on "Lop-Sided" Folks in Greensboro Tomorrow Night in the New West Market Annex.

To know that George Stuart is coming is enough, to say nothing of the fact that he is to deliver that funny lecture on "Lop-Sided Folks," which is given up to be one of the richest things on the American platform. The people of Greensboro and surrounding country are exceedingly fortunate to have this one, and perhaps only, chance to hear this distinguished American upon this unique subject.

The following able press comments and personal testimonials tell the story:

There is no man on the American platform today who is equal to George Stuart. He is by far superior to all the popular lecturers in the cause of moral reform.—Len G. Broughton.

It gives me the greatest pleasure to say that we have never had any one on our Winona platform who has been more enthusiastically received than Mr. Stuart. I consider him one of the strongest men in his line I have ever met.—J. Wilbur Chapman.

He has the fluency of Talmage, the pathos of Moody and the humor of Sam Jones.—Galveston (Tex.) News.

I regard George Stuart as the greatest living evangelist.—Sam P. Jones.

For years Rev. George Stuart has been with Rev. Sam P. Jones in the evangelistic work, and is a good match for this marvelous reformer and preacher. Mr. Stuart is a remarkable man. His wealth of thought and expression is surprising. His words burst from his soul like a great torrent from its mountain source and sweeps over his crowds, stirring them, moving them, uprooting them. He is wise in the choice of illustrations and master in their use. Sam Jones' genius was never better displayed than in the selection of this gifted and eloquent Tennesseean for his associate.—Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Cone Improving.

The condition of Mr. Sol. N. Cone, who was found wounded in his room last Saturday morning, was reported last night as encouraging. Mr. Cone is rapidly regaining his strength and it is thought will soon be able to leave the hospital.

Will Leave Hospital Today.

Mr. Will Prevost, who was injured by a street car Tuesday night, is getting along nicely and will be able to leave the hospital today. He wanted to leave yesterday, but the attending physicians thought it best for him to remain a day longer.

GEN. ARMFIELD'S FUNERAL TODAY

Remains to Be Interred at Statesville.

Officers of State Guard to Attend Funeral—Deputy Insurance Commissioner Investigating Fires In Buncombe County—Governor Grants Three Pardons, One of the Pardoned Men Being An Indian—Two Charters Issued.

Raleigh, Oct. 13.—Quite a party of officers of the North Carolina National Guard left this afternoon for Statesville to attend the funeral of the late J. F. Armfield, adjutant general of the Guard to be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Among them were Brigadier General B. S. Royster, General R. T. Roberson, Col. Alf Williams, Major R. M. Albright, Major Leigh Skinner, Major R. M. Coborn, Capt. Baxter Durham and State Auditor B. F. Dixon, Jr. The flags on the state house are being kept at half mast until after the funeral.

The Willis & Davenport Grocery Co., Morehead City, is chartered with $25,000 capital by J. T. Davenport and others. There is also a charter for the Marlboro Farming Co., Aberdeen, capital $7,750, Henry A. Page being among the incorporators.

News came today from Bernardsville, Buncombe county, to the state commissioner of insurance that Bob Burleson and W. H. Bedford have just been bound over there on the charges of setting fire to buildings they controlled with a view to collecting insurance. Deputy Commissioner Scott has been working up the cases. He is also investigating a third fire that has the appearance of incendiary origin.

Tom Ellis who has served four years of a twenty-five years sentence in the penitentiary on the charge of burglarizing a residence in Raleigh, is pardoned by Governor Kitchin at the request of the woman who was the principal witness against him, she having identified him as the man she saw in her room. She has since gotten doubtful about the identity of the negro, hence her request for his pardon.

Another pardon is for Fidillie Reed, Jackson county, who has served nine years of a seventeen year sentence for second degree murder. The prisoner is an Indian. The man he killed came to his house drunk and was given supper which he asked for. Later the body of the murdered man was found about one hundred yards from the prisoner's house. The prisoner is said to have been reading his Bible when the man he killed came up. The trial judge and the solicitor recommend pardon.

The governor also pardons Sam Greer, serving a three months' sentence on the Caldwell county roads for selling whiskey, and E. R. Leviner, Richmond county, serving 18 months on the roads for selling whiskey. Greer is pardoned on account of his previous good character and Leviner on account of injuries he has received while working on a railroad that prevents his walking any more.

The Bank of Hope Mills, in Cumberland county, was closed today by the corporation commissioner on account of 50 per cent impairment of its $5,100 capital stock through bad loans.

State Bank Examiner Doughton has charge until the court receiver is procured. The last report of the bank showed $15,630 deposits.

The commissioners think the depositors will get their money in full, the legal liabilities of the stockholders being sufficient to save depositors.

The resources of the bank at the last report were $29,362. J. G. Gilbert is president.

Madison, Wis., 25,531, an increase of 6,367 or 33.2 per cent over 19,164 in 1900.

SMITH—WAKEFIELD.

Pretty Home Wedding In Charlotte on Wednesday Evening.

The following from yesterday's Charlotte Observer will be read with interest by Greensboro friends of Miss Louise Wakefield, who has often visited her sister, Mrs. L. M. Ham:

In the presence of a brilliant company and with all the beauty, charm and circumstance of an old-time wedding service, Miss Louise Wakefield, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wakefield, was united in marriage last evening at the home of her parents on Elizabeth Heights to Mr. Erskine R. Smith, one of the city's best known and most popular young business men, the vows being spoken before Rev. Dr. A. A. McGeachy, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church.

The ceremony took place at 8:30 o'clock in the lovely northeast parlor of the Wakefield home, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. Hanging from the great double doors leading into this room from the hall was a large white ribbon arch, studded with roses and holding suspended ribbon bows. It was beneath this arch that the fateful words were spoken, the concourse of relatives and friends being assembled in front and around it. The parlor was decorated with ivy which curtained the windows, asparagus fern which enveloped the chandelier and asparagus fern and lighted candles which adorned the mantle.

To the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, rendered by Mr. H. L. Brockman, of Greensboro, on the piano, the bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father and took her appointed place before the altar. She wore white chiffon over silk with Duchess lace, her veil being caught by a sprig of orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Willie Wakefield, who was her bridesmaid. Miss Wakefield wore white batiste trimmed with Irish lace. Mr. Smith was accompanied by his best man, Mr. Kenneth R. Trotter. While the ceremony was in progress Mr. Brockman played softly Schubert's Serenade. Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was given in honor of the newly wedded couple. Later they left for the North where they will spend their honeymoon after which they will return to Charlotte and go to housekeeping in Dilworth.

There were many gifts displayed last evening, the tokens of esteem and affection in which the young people are held by their many fiends.

The bride of last evening has been a resident of the city for many years, and has always enjoyed the love and admiration of a wide circle of friends. Mr. Smith has been in business here for some time and is one of Charlotte's leading business men. He is also a member of the city board of aldermen and alike popular in club and business circles.

THE FESTIVE PICKPOCKET

One Or Two Good Hauls and Several Not So Good Are Recorded.

The inevitable pickpocket appears to have got in his work to a certain degree. Last night Robert McGee, of South Elm street, reported to Officer Hepler at the city hall, that as he was getting on a car at the fair ground station somebody relieved him of $1.25. McGee said that another man on the same car was touched for $18.

As William Smith, a colored man from the eastern part of town, was getting on No. 43 night before last to see some relatives off, he had $12.25 stolen from his pockets by some unknown person.

A white man, whose name the officer did not get, reported to Policeman Iseley late Wednesday afternoon that the sum of $45 had been lifted from him.

Rev. Mr. Barber To Preach Special Sermon.

Rev. S. T. Barber will preach at Holt's Chapel next Sunday at 3:30 p. m. taking for his subject: "The Savior, The Soul, and Salvation." Rev. Mr. Barber writes The Telegram:

"The people in Greensboro could not do better for themselves nor for the cause of Christ than to go out and encourage a congregation so near to them as Holt's Chapel."

Bet You Never Saw a Saw Saw Like This Saw Saws.

There is an exhibit in the north window of the Greensboro Hardware Company that is attracting much attention. It is a dummy man demonstrating the Atkins saw. The demonstration will continue all this week. Every carpenter who enters this store Saturday will be presented with a souvenir.

Hoax—"How can you figure out that time is money?" Joax—"Because time flies."

CAMPAIGN FOR LIBRARY FUND

Final Report of Workers Tonight.

While It Is Not Likely That Full Amount Needed Will Be Secured the Reports Are of a Most Encouraging Nature and Additional Subscriptions Will Doubtless Run Figures Above $1,000—Meeting At Eight O'clock.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the reception hall of the Guilford Hotel the workers in the library book fund campaign will make their final report. It will be remembered that but few of the workers were able to report at the meeting Monday night on account of several reasons, all being good ones, and because of this the time was extended until tonight for the final report. The campaign was launched to raise $2,500 with which to purchase needed books for the library, but it is hardly probable that this sum will be raised.

However, the captains of the several teams state that they have secured the services of several of their men, despite the fact that the fair has been in progress and they believe that the reports tonight will be far more encouraging than those made on Monday night. With a little additional work today it is believed that the amount raised will reach far beyond the $1,000 mark. According to the reports made Monday night out of 137 subscriptions nearly $600 was raised and it is believed that fully two hundred additional subscriptions have been secured since that time, as hardly a third of the workers had been able to do any soliciting. With the same average as was reported at the first meeting this should run the amount up to over $1,300.

General Wharton in speaking of the campaign last night stated that even though the workers fell short of the mark the amount secured would do an immense good in relieving the need of the library for books. However, General Wharton believes that the workers can and will bring in reports tonight that will prove most gratifying to everyone connected with the campaign. He asks The Telegram to urge that not only the twenty captains, but every worker be present at the Guilford tonight to make a report and hear the result announced.

WAGER—TEMKO.

Prominent Hebrew Couple Wedded Here Last Evening—Off on Trip.

Last evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Temko, 207 North Davie street, was the scene of a quiet but beautiful wedding when their daughter, Miss Sarah Temko, became the bride of Mr. Wager, of Thomasville. The ceremony, which took place at 9:30 o'clock, was impressively performed by Rabbi G. Mendelsohn in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. Miss Howard, of Kinston, rendered the wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlor.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wager left on No. 38 for a trip north, after which they will be at their future home in Thomasville. The bride was handsomely gowned in a blue silk dress with Irish lace trimmings. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Temko presented the bride with a check for $300 as a token of their love.

Both bride and groom are well known and have a large number of friends who will learn with interest of their marriage.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Goodman and Miss Lena Goodman, of Lexington; Mrs. H. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Watz, Mr. Rabinowitz, Mr. Louis Arner, High Point; Mr. Will Pickard, Mr. Jim Pickard, Thomasville; Messrs. J. Ginsberg, A. Bloom, Mr. Block, Mr. Bloomberg, Baltimore; Mr. Israel Wager, Randleman.

Before Judge Eure.

Only two cases were on the docket when Judge Eure convened Municipal court yesterday morning and these were disposed of in short order. Martin Worth was fined $2.50 and costs for disorderly conduct. Fletcher Lindsay was fined $5 and costs for an assault.

UNFAITHFUL HUSBANDS.

A Strong Sermon by Rev. Dr. Oliver Huckel.

Baltimore American.

Rev. Dr. Oliver Ruckel delivered a strong sermon last evening at Associate Congregational church on "The Husband Who is Unfaithful to His Vows." He said in part:

"Today the sacredness of the marriage relation is the subject of so many wittiicisms in our comic papers, in novels and modern plays that it seems as if more than half the current literature depends for its interest on the doubtful relations among married people. The vices of the rich tend in this direction—a defiance of marriage relations. And it is a standing reproach against the profession of actors and actresses that their chief advertisement seems to be their frequent changes of martial relations.

"America is worse than any other country on the globe in its marital exchanges. The divorce colony at Reno, Nev., is a standing blot on our civilization. All sorts of disgraceful things are countenanced there. The recent prize-fight at Reno was only one act in its perpetual criminal record. We hear today much loose talk about trial marriages by some so-called thinkers who ought to know better. Such a practice would ruin society. We hear about progressive marriages as people talk about progressive bridge parties. There are some society people who are adept in progressive marriage, but it is no better than legalized polygamy.

"We hear much obout free love in various forms, about affinities, and we have recently seen a great deal of its foolishness and some of its tragedies. Illicit love is in the atmosphere of our modern life in talk and in newspapers. Is it any wonder that morals are corrupt?

"If you are an unfaithful husband you are involving someone else in dishonor and ruin. A man's sin is never confined to himself. If he sins in drink he involves his friends and family in his shame. If he sins in unfaithfulness he is sacrificing some other soul on the altar of his lust. Always he attempts to excuse himself in this matter by pleading this or that; but he cannot get away from the fact that he is responsible also for the partner of his guilt.

"If you are an unfaithful husband, you are defying human law. You are a law-breaker, classing yourself with the thieves, robbers and murderers of the land and are deserving of prison."

"It Beats All."

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first dose gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. Sold by Howard Gardner.

LISBON NOISY TOWN.

But Everybody There is in Good Humor, And People Are Proverbially Polite.

London Cor. N. Y. World.

Lisbon is perhaps the noisiest town in the world. In some respects it is noiser than New York or Chicago. Street car bells clang ceaselessly until far into the night, motor horns are always tooting, bells are rung outside of innumerable cinematograph shows and bicycle bells add to the noise.

Hilly and dazzlingly lighted, Lisbon at night is one of the loveliest sights in the world. In daytime the city presents a bewildering picture. Brazilian merchants thread the traffic in luxurious motor cars and the wealthy Portuguese drive in magnificent carriages These vehicles move along with street cars, dilapidated cabs, trade vans, country carts and the pack mules of the peasants. Bull fighters go by in cars headed by brass bands.

Everybody is in good humor, and politeness is general. A poor man will walk half a mile out of his way to guide a stranger without expecting any reward.

The Avenida da Liberdade, where 2,000 unarmed citizens marched up to the mouths of the monarchists cannon Tuesday is the glory of Lisbon. The promenade is lined with trees and is one mile long and 300 feet wide. It is one of the finest metropolitan spectacles in Europe. Near the arsenal live the sailors in a quarter where the eating house keepers preserve their property by chaining the knives and forks to the table. In the old quarters during the afternoon siesta the people lie so thickly on the street that it is hard to avoid stumbling over them.

Revelry on feast days, especially among the young folk, surpasses in ardor and picturesqueness anything witnessed elsewhere among European people. Here is where the negro and Moorish blood of so many of the Portuguese manifests itself."

When you see the word "Mother" on a fence, in the road, in the papers, or on card board in the show windows, think of Mother's Joy, the only salve made that will absolutely cure pneumonia in twenty-four hours. Goose Grease Company.

WHY THE WOMEN WEAR BIG HATS

London Times, Chronically Ponderous, Comes Down From its Dignity to Analyze the Feminine Mind—Finds Woman is Willing to Accept Man With His Foibles, But Insists on Her Own.

London, Oct. 12.—It has remained for the London Times to solve one of the great social mysteries. Amazement in a mild term to apply to the feelings of Englishmen when they found in the editorial columns of the Thunderer a leading article entitled "The Problem of the Big Hat."

A joke in the columns of England's most dignified journal would scarcely have made a greater sensation. Frivolity, lightness, the human touch, are things taboo in Printinghouse Square. and yet suddenly, without warning, comes this startling sign of juvenation—not rejuvenation, for the Times never was young.

There is only one thing to account for it. That awful burden, the preparation of a new edition of the British Encyclopedia, has recently been transferred from the Times to the Cambridge University Press. The relief from responsibility has brought too great a reaction. It has gone to the editor's head. It has led him to tackle recklessly and light heartedly a problem which has baffled the masculine half of humanity since beyond the memory of man. Without further delay, here is his solution:

"It is commonly said that women are more unselfish than men. And so they certainly are in the home. They will sacrifice themselves utterly for particular men and particular children. Yet they will not sacrifice an inch of hat brim or feather for the common convenience, and they will not tell us the reason of this seeming inconsistency.

"Men remonstrate, and they smile and continue to wear the hats and the feathers. Therefore, it remains for us to guess at the reason of this behavior so strange to us, and we can only guess that it is the result of a sense of the relative importance of things different from our own.

"When a man goes to a lawn tennis tournament he goes to see the play and he assumes that women go for the same reason. Some do, of course, but they are not representative of their sex. They are women who have adopted the man's point of view, who are overpowered by the influence of their fathers or husbands or brothers. The woman whose natural instincts have free play does not consider any game is important.

"She is not, as man is, a game playing animal. But since man always will be playing games she has arrived at a kind of compromise with him. She will go to watch his games and profess an interest in them on condition that she may attend to her own business all the while, and her business is to wear a large hat or whatever else it pleases her to wear.

"It may seem a frivolous business to the earnest lawn tennis player, but then his tennis seems frivolous to her. It is just a peculiarity of his sex to make a fuss about it; she accepts his peculiarities without fretting about them, and expects him to accept hers.

"And after all, dress to women is something more than a game. It is one of the means of expressing themselves. Fine clothes make them feel happy and as if they were in a glorified state of existence, freed from the wear and tear of its life; in fact, as if they were true birds of Paradise, with all the splendor of Paradise in their plumage."

There you have it. There is more of it, wherein the editor admits that only Tolstoy and himself have a sufficiently true insight into woman's nature to be able to solve the riddle.

But the women have yet to be heard from in their opinion of the Times resolution. We may be sure they will speak up promptly. It is safe to say the Times mail bag is already swelling with feminine remarks on its judgment of feminine character.

DAY 702. PHONES NIGHT 1442

Her Pirate Lover

By ARTHUR L. SANDS

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Molly Van Dusen and I plighted our troth one evening under the parapet of the battery in the town of New Amsterdam. We were looking down the bay, and a ship, the first that had arrived in several weeks, was coming up under full sail. It was summer. All these things I remember well, for it was the happiest moment of my life, and whatever was visible to my dear love and me was deeply impressed upon my mind.

That was a very hot season, and Molly was drooping from the heat. The very next day after she had promised to be my wife her father determinded to send her to the eastern coast in Connecticut to spend some time with her mother's brother, Pardon Mathews, hoping that the sea air would strengthen her. I was loath to let her go at such a time and especially since the captain of the ship that came in at the time of our betrothal reported having been chased by a pirate, and it was well known that the buccaneers were at any time liable to make a descent on the coast.

But Molly's father packed her off in the coach leaving for Boston, directing that she be put off at a bit of headland jutting out into Long Island sound not far from the settlement at New Haven.

It was a sad day for both of us when she got into the coach and I watched it pass out of sight among the bowerles lying to the eastward of the town. And even after the coach had grown so dim with distance as scarcely to be discovered I could see Molly's white handkerchief streaming a signal of her love for me.

I found the town unbearable without her. I played at bowls in the green near the battery and sailed in my boat on Hudson's river, but I could not get on without my Molly, so I determined to go to her. I mounted my sorrel one August morning, with my saddlebags well filled with eatables, and on the third day reached the New Haven settlement. After partaking of a dinner and giving my horse a good feed I remounted and in three hours' time came in sight of that headland where dwelt Pardon Mathews. There are rocks and short beaches on this shore and an occasional knoll covered with long grass. An Indian showed me Mr. Mathews' house set on one of these knolls. I trotted on where the road ran near the water and presently, looking ahead, saw two persons standing on a rock that protruded out a few feet above the surface of the sound.

As I drew nearer I could see that one of these persons was a man and the other a woman. The man was in an uncouth dress. What was my surprise when I came near enough to distinguish his apparel to see that he wore a hat with a large brim, a short coat and trousers to his knees, flaring at the bottom of the legs, while a broad belt filled with knives was buckled about his waist.

At once I was filled with alarm, feeling sure that there had been a descent of pirates on the settlers and this fellow had carried off one of the women. Having a pistol in my holster, I drew it forth, saw to the priming and made ready for an attempt to rescue this poor woman. Dismounting, I left my horse in a thicket and, stealing up on the couple, hid behind a rock and, taking sure aim at the pirate, pulled the trigger.

The flint refused to light the priming, and luckily, for at the moment the pirate put his arm around the woman's waist, and the two stood looking at the incoming tide. Were she a willing captive it would only distress her if I killed her lover. But what was my horror when she turned her face my way to see my Molly.

At first I was minded to kill them both; but, shrinking from having Molly's blood on my hands, I desisted and advanced with my pistol in hand.

"Have you gone mad, Mistress Van Dusen," I exclaimed, "that you will accept the caresses of a pirate, or has he murdered all your folk and you are making a pretense in order to watch your opportunity to get away from him?"

As I spoke I held the pirate under cover of my weapon, and he, turning, ran like a deer toward Mr. Mathew's house.

"See the coward run!" I cried, half minded to shoot him in his tracks.

And then what did Molly do but burst into loud laughter, and, sitting down on the rock, she kept it up till I grew hot with choler and said:

"For shame, Molly, to turn from me to a priate, and a coward at that! Speak before I kill him."

This brought her to her senses. "Forbear," she said. "Do not kill a girl."

"A girl! And have the women turned buccaneers?"

With that she fell to laughing again, and I could get nothing from her for a long while, when she controlled her mirth and said:

"Tonight uncle gives a dance to the settlers roundabout, and all are to come dressed in some strange costume. This pirate who has just closed the door of the house is my cousin, Patience Mathews. She is dressed in her costume for the dance. We two came out to watch for the boat bearing guests from New Haven."

"Heavens!" I exclaimed. "Had not my flint failed I would have shot her."

A Chicago institution has opened "a school for brides." Anything can happen in Chicago.

An exchange observes that Weyler couldn't save Cuba and he can't save Spain. But Cuba had its United States. There's a difference.

But are not the Democrats attaching entirely too much importance to Mr. Butler, anyway?—Durham Herald.

From the way the Herald talks, we infer that it does not know Mr. Butler very well.

The picture of rats leaving the sinking ship is suggested by the resignation of William Barnes, Jr., from the Republican State Executive Committee of New York. In the same connection, it is to be remembered that Elihu Root says that the Republicans have a "fighting" chance to carry New York this year.

Baltimore is planning an exposition for 1914. The census returns were not flattering and the Monumental City just had to do something, but it's a great pity it couldn't spare the country another exposition. Fact is, expositions have grown so frequent that they have become common.

It is hard to see wherein the Republicans of New York have even "a fighting chance" when it is remembered that the taxpayers are having it pointed out to them that the expenses of the State government under sixteen years of Republican rule has increased from fifteen million dollars to thirty-nine millions.

Col. Roosevelt says he would "cinch" all of the "crooks" big and little, but he doesn't tell how he would do it. He is so vague and indefinite in his remedies for present day evils that the point to the following from the Indianapolis News is readily seen:

Don't misunderstand me, sezee; what I mean is something that is good for what ails you, whatever that is.

Would the Democrats revise the tariff if they had a chance? Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the Republican County Committee of New York, thinks they would. For on Wednesday of this week he issued a statement in which he said, "A vote against Stimson means a vote for a Democratic Congress with certain efforts for a sweeping revision of the tariff." Of course Mr. Griscom and all his kind view with alarm anything like a real revision of the tariff.

The Charlotte Observer in a calm, temperate, evidently well considered editorial, finds the chairmanship of John Motley Morehead, the present head (titular head, that is to say,) of the Republican party to be a failure. Says the Observer:

When Representative John M. Morehead won the Republican State chairmanship we declared that his tenure would be judged by its fruits. The time when a judgment may be safely pronounced has now, we think, arrived. Mr. Morehead's chairmanship is a failure, and for several reasons.

Those reasons are briefly that there is a nation-wide trend toward Democratic policies owing to general dissatisfaction with the "standpat" attitude of the Republican party and that Chairman Morehead took into partnership a man for whom there is pronounced hatred on the part of a large majority of the people of this State. The Observer goes on to justfy that hatred and justifies it thoroughly, concluding its reasons for predicting that Morehead's chairmanship will fail by declaring that it deserves to fail. The Republicans, by the way, have never claimed that the Observer was unfair to them.

PROTECTION DOES NOT HELP LABOR!

In Answer to a Letter of Inquiry, Governor Kitchin Makes the True Explanation of What Does and Does Not Regulate the Price of Labor—A Low Tariff Would Meet the Difference of Cost and Then Give the Laboring Man a Chance to Buy His Necessities.

Raleigh, Oct. 13.—In reply to a letter of inquiry as to what he said in a certain speech, Governor Kitchin has written the following letter, which amply explains itself:

Mr. C. L. Harris, Mayodan, N. C.

Dear Sir:—Yours of the 7th has been received.

I did not state that the only hope was for our laborers to be paid the same wages as foreigners, but I conclusively showed, I think, that the tariff did not regulate wages. Since 1607, long before we had a tariff, American wages were higher than European wages. The workmen of Australia get higher wages than those of North Carolina. The people of the State of Washington, having the same tariff that we have, get twice as much wages; and the people of Alaska, with the same tariff, get four times as much wages as our people. The sugar planter in Louisiana, having high protection, pays no more wages than the Louisiana cotton grower, who is unprotected. The protected man in no city pays more wages for the same class of work than the unprotected man, and pays no more for his wood, flour, or any other article. Our so-called protected laborers get no more wages than our unprotected carpenters, masons, painters, etc. The ability to pay high wages does not result in high wages. The highly rich pay no higher wages for the same labor than the poor pay.

I argued that since our American cotton mills are already producing more cotton manufactures than the American people consume, and are thereby compelled to sell millions of dollars of them abroad in competition with foreign goods, that we must either stop building new mills and enlarging old ones, or we must sell an increasing quantity of manufactured goods to foreign people; that in order to build up a foreign trade in cotton goods we must compete in foreign markets with foreign goods; that to do this our manufacturers, since they are not in a monopoly, and therefore cannot overcharge our people to make up for small profits or possible losses in the foreign market, must be in position to make goods more economically than we do now.

Admitting that our mill owners are up to date and the most intelligent in the world, and that the American laborer does more work in the same number of hours than any other laborer in the world, and therefore entitled to more wages, and that our Southern cotton mills are in the midst of the cotton-fields, yet under the protective policy our mills cannot profitably compete in the foreign market with foreign manufacturers. In order to so compete, the tariff on mill machinery and supplies should be reduced to a revenue basis, and thus enable our mills to be equipped and supplied from $300 to $400 in the thousand dollars cheaper than at present.

Mill owners, clerks, and other employees should have the opportunity of clothing themselves, equipping their homes and in every way taking care of themselves and their families free from the oppression of the protective policy. This could be done by reducing the tariff on all articles to a revenue basis.

The entire wages paid in American cotton mills is less than 27 per cent of the value of the manufactured product. A 15 per cent tariff on the value of manufactured products will more than pay the difference in wages in England and the United States, and yet we have an average tax of 50 per cent on manufactures on the tariff list.

No Democrat favors free trade, but every one favors a tariff for revenue.

Free-trade England pays more wages than any other country in Europe, protected or otherwise, and her wages have increased 80 per cent since she adopted the free-trade policy. An English weaver gets $6.86 a week wages and far shorter hours. Factory wages have been increasing here and elsewhere for a hundred years, and will continue to increase. Improved machinery enables labor to earn more, and improved social conditions demand more wages.

The laborer should have the right to spend his wages without paying tribute to protection. Owing to the protective policy, the American laborer is compelled to pay from $12.50 to $16 for goods which the English laborer buys at $10. The Englishman pays $10.39 for a suit of woolen clothes which costs the American $20. The latter's wife pays twice as much for a pair of kid gloves. She pays $1.50 more for a hundred pounds of sugar than the Englishman's wife. She pays practically twice as much for her woolen blankets, flannels, and shawls; 50 per cent more for woolen carpets and hats. She pays more for her cutlery, crockery, stove, and for a majority of the articles to clothe herself and family and equip her home.

The primary purpose of the protective policy is to enable the protected interests to charge the American people more for goods than they would otherwise have to pay.

If labor got the benefit of the increased prices, the benefit would be divided among millions instead of thousands, and the American conscience would not be so deeply aroused over protection's iniquity.

The American cotton mills already producing more goods than the Americans consume, not being in a trust, and competing with each other for the American market, do not and cannot hold the prices of their goods up to the protective tariff standard and are not reaping the high profits which were attainable in the past. If the theory had ever been true that protection regulates wages, the theory could not now apply to our cotton mills. The American people, whose cotton, corn, wheat, cattle, and hogs bring no greater prices than such products of the South American, English, and European farmers, and being compelled to pay greater prices for the protected goods they buy, are thereby deprived of their full ability to consume American cotton goods. In other words, ninety millions of American consumers—the best purchasers of the globe—are so oppressed by the protective policy that they are unable to buy cotton goods from our factories in as great quantities as they would otherwise consume.

Yours truly,
(Signed) W. W. KITCHIN.
Governor.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNI PLEDGE THEIR SUPPORT.

Will Urge Legislators to Give Educational Institutions More Liberal Support.

The Guilford County University Alumni Association at the annual banquet Wednesday night unanimously adopted the following resolutions before the affair came to an end, the resolutions being self-explanatory:

The members of the Guilford County University Alumni Association wish to re-affirm their allegiance to their Alma Mater and to assure her of their continued love and loyalty. They realize the necessity in a live, progressive, democratic civilization of the higher institutions of learning. If our civilization is to advance along lines of high endeavor and large social service, we must depend upon our University to set the pace in giving to our people guidance, inspiration, and lofty ideals. The members of the Guilford County University Alumni Association, believing as they do in these fundamental truths, desire to extend to their Alma Mater their sincere congratulations for the significant service she has rendered North Carolina and the American Union in the past, and to adopt the following resolutions:

First—That they express their hearty sympathy in the movement to provide by legislation larger appropriations to the end that their University may become adequate to the increasing demands made upon it by the State and commensurate with the large provision made by other states for their universities.

Second—That they pledge themselves as individuals and as an association to use their earnest endeavors to advance in every possible manner the best interests of the State University.

Third—That they make a special appeal to their representatives in the Legislature and a broader appeal to the General Assembly of the State to meet the pressing needs of their University, believing that the citizens of North Carolina will give their hearty approval to a liberal expenditure of money for the purpose of advancing every educational interest of the state.

Fourth—That the Guilford County Association appeals to the University Associations of the different counties to press this work with vigor until ample provision has been made for the proper development and maintenance of their Alma Mater.

Subscription Dance Tonight.

Don't Cheapen Yourself

What will folks think your time is worth if you go out yourself, on your own feet, to do for yourself what you could do so much cheaper—so much more surely—so much easier—and so much quicker, by means of a little Classified ad, here in the Market Place of the Classified adds. Don't let folks think your time is worth less than what a little Classified ad would save you.

RAILS ARE SHIPPED TRACTION COMPANY

Active Work of Constructing Great Interurban Begun—Rails Shipped To Greenville Where Work Will Begin—Rumored That Piedmont Traction Company May Lease S. A. L. Track From Charlotte to Wilmington.

The following is from yesterday's Charlotte News:

Active work has been begun on the construction of the tracks of the Piedmont Traction Company.

The first shipment of rails to be used in the construction of the interurban line was shipped to Greenville yesterday. Work will be commenced on the Greenville-Spartanburg end of the line first. Contractors are now going on that part of the road, in order to put in their bids for the grading and construction of the line. The contracts for the work on that end of the line will probably be let within the next week, and as soon as the proper surveys can be made and rights of way secured work will be commenced on the line from Charlotte to Gastonia and further south.

The News was first to carry the story, some time ago, in regard to the negotiations of the Traction Company with the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company with a view to the leasing of a part of the tracks of the Seaboard by the Piedmont Traction Company. It is now rumored that the Traction Company will probably lease the entire stretch of road from Charlotte to Wilmington and convert it into a part of the Piedmont Traction System, using electric motive power instead of steam. The recent purchase of the Blewett Falls power development near Rockingham tends to confirm this rumor.

The plant at Blewett Flass has been in process of construction for some time under the direction of the Rockingham Power Company. The work was stopped a few years ago on account of the stringency in the money market and the power development has been advertised for sale. It has been rumored for some time that the plant would be bought by the Southern Power Company.

The Blewett Falls plant is one of the largest power developments in the country and compares favorably with either of the plants which the Southern Power Company now has. It would be almost midway between this city and Wilmington and would furnish abundant power to operate a line from the Piedmont section to the seacoast.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the Southern Power Company will perhaps come into possession of the mammoth power development on the Yadkin river at Whitney, near Salisbury, within the next few days. This large plant is to be sold some time soon in order to satisfy a mortgage and it has been persisitently rumored that the Southern Power Company will be the purchaser. The company went into bankruptcy about two years ago at the time of the money stringency, just as the work was about to be completed and has been in liquidation since that time. The Whitney Company which was composed largely of Philadelphia and Pittsburg capitalists spent about five million dollars in the construction of the plant and it has a potential production of 140,000 horsepower. The Southern Power Company would perhaps use this power to operate that part of the traction system from Charlotte to Durham.

The magnitude of the new system which the traction company is developing can scarcely be realized and its effect upon the industrial development of the Piedmont section can scarcely be calculated. With an outlet to the coast as is now proposed by the company it will mean cheaper freight rates for all the inland cities and in connection with the waterways development which has been so persistently pushed by Congressman Small it will mean competition with all the Northern and Virginia cities on a fair and equitable basis.

Meeting of Aldermen.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Aldermen will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, provided a quorum is secured. Two of the members will have to be at the fair grounds, however, and it is quite probable that the meeting will be adjourned until next week. There are several matters to be attended to, one of which will be the final chapter of the street lighting contract.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS ON THE INSTALMENT PLAN

Could They Be Bought That Way They Would Be Much In Demand In the Mexican Republic.

Washington, Oct. 13.—"If American manufacturers will give the unfortunate cripples of Mexico an opportunity to buy artificial legs by the foot, or on the instalment plan, there is a great field in the Mexican republic for the artificial limb industry," Consul William M. Canady, of Vera Cruz, Mexico, in a report to this government, says:

In the use of artificial limbs at least in this consular jurisdiction has always been restricted to the fortunate ones able to pay for the usually costly substitute, for in nearly every instance it is the unskilled operative who proves to be the victim, one whose daily or weekly stipend is not large enough to warrant the purchase. Steam and electric roads since their introduction into this country are in a great measure responsible for the many crippled persons seen here; yet even among people that could afford the cost of an artificial limb, there are proportionately very few who make use of one.

"The principal factor to be borne in mind is always the cost to the purchaser. While the well-to-do would not hesitate in paying from $100 upwards for an artificial leg, there are those not so fortunate who would gladly avail themselves of the opportunity of providing themselves with artificial limbs could they be paid for in instalments."

An Eloquent Temperance Lecturer Coming.

Next Tuesday night in West Market Street Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Lillian M. Phelps, of St. Catherine's, Canada, will give a lecture under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Miss Phelps is one of the most eloquent and convincing temperance speakers who has ever visited Greensboro, and no doubt a large audience will hear her.

Mr. Sharpe Wins Again.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R .R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., Philadelphia, Pa., Memphis, Tenn., Davenport, Ia., Columbia, S. C., or Portland, Ore., according to where you wish to enter.

FOUR PER CENT. PAID ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS.—FOUR PER CENT.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a dollar saved and a dollar spent is just two dollars. Did it ever occur to you that way? It's worth thinking about.

Another difference is the feeling you have afterward. The dollar saved gives you a feeling of real pleasure—it may call for a little sacrifice for the time being, but afterward you feel better for having denied yourself and the dollar is still yours. That is the nice thing about having money in the bank—you have saved it—it is still yours—you can have it when you wish.

We make it a part of our business to urge you to have a bank account at this bank, for it not only helps our business but yours more so.

WORLD'S OLDEST WOMAN.

Baba Vasilka Was Born in a Little Bulgarian Town in 1784.

The claim of Frau Dutkiewitz, of Posen, born on February 21, 1785, to be the oldest woman in the world, is now contested by Mrs. Baba Vasilka, who was born in May, 1784, in the little Bulgarian village of Bavelsko, where she has lived ever since. The record of her birth is preserved in a neighboring monastery of the Orthodox Greek faith. Baba Vilska is the daughter of a peasant, and worked herself as a peasant up till a comparatively recent date. For more than 100 years she regularly worked in the fields, according to the custom of her country, where women are employed in all sorts of manual labor. When she was born Bulgaria was merely a province of the Turkish Empire, and the entire population groaned under the tyranny of their Turkish rulers.

She has seen innumerable wars and rebellions, massacres and atrocities, political crimes and political tragedies. She recollects with perfect distinctness events that happened at the end of the 18th century and the beginning of the 19th century; in fact, the events of her earlier life up to the time when she attained the age of 80 are far more distinctly impressed on her mind than the happenings of the last 46 years. Baba Vasilka lived through all the crisis of her nation, and now rejoices to know that Bulgaria is an independent kingdom.

Her son, Toder, following the family tradition, has also worked in the fields as a peasant nearly all his life, but he has also taken part in the various wars and rebellions in the Balkan peninsula. He is not quite so fresh and vigorous as his mother, although he is still capable of doing a good day's work. The "oldest woman in the world" is said to enjoy fairly good eyesight and good hearing, and she is able to walk without support.

She lives on a pension paid her by many of her numerous descendants, who number more than 100. She is naturally quite a celebrity in her own land and people come great distances to get a glimpse of this wonderful woman who has defied the ravages of time for a century and a quarter.—London Standard.

Reaching the Top

in any calling of life, demands a vigorous body and a keen brain. Without health there is no success. But Electric Bitters is the greatest Health Builder the world has ever known. Bridesmaids in Hobble Skirts.

New York American.

There was a great turning out of old New Yorkers yesterday for the marriage of Miss Sophie Witherspoon Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Townsend, to John A. Dix, son of the late Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix. The bridesmaids, who were the Misses Margaret Schuyler Townsend, Janet King Townsend, Frances Dickey, Justine Van Rensslear Barber, Margaret Harris, Mollie Martin and Dorothea Carroll, of this city, and Katherine Tillman, of West Point, had just a suspicion of a hobble to the skirts of their blue satin princess frocks, which were belted in above the ankles in the back by a scarf of black tulle. This started from near the shoulders in the back, and was the "cachet" of their costumes. It served as a background for big pink roses and leaves, arranged at intervals, and made the most effective garniture imaginable. bm-b..PRieds fg on sthesS dsOofthe

Cottolene

Cottolene-cooked food agrees with one because Cottolene contains not an ounce of hog fat—it is a vegetable instead of an animal product. Its wholesomeness and purity are vouched for by Nature. Cottolene is "the fat from the flower."

All the country's best cooks—Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln, Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer, Mrs. Helen Armstrong, Marion Harland, Lida Ames Willis, and a dozen others of national reputation—recommended Cottolene in preference to lard or any other medium for frying and shortening.

Isn't the testimony of such experts worth something to you?

Order a pail of Cottolene from your grocer to-day and learn why it "shortens your food—lengthens your life."

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Greensboro.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidney and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning, also causes headaches, dizzy spells, lanquor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a fellow sufferer tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Ella. J. Hughes, Dixie St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times for several years and they have never failed to give me prompt relief. Some time ago I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and I had frequent spells of dizziness, caused by disordered kidneys. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they quickly removed the cause of all my suffering. I have had slight returns of the trouble since but Doan's Kidney Pills always bring satisfactory relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — Doan's — and take no other.

ARSENIC POISONING.

The Torture That Ensues Before Death Brings Relief.

When a single dose of arsenic in sufficient quantity to be felt has been taken colicky pains, bowel disorder and perhaps nausea result. In the course of an hour after a poisonous dose has been taken an intense burning pain is felt in the esophagus and stomach. This spreads to the entire anterior portion of the lower part of the trunk. A sense of constriction at the throat and an acrid, metallic taste accompany the pain. Then vomiting and relaxation of the bowels begin. As the case progresses the symptoms increase in intensity. Then comes a thirst that water will not allay, although it apparently increases the stomach disturbance. The victim groans and writhes.

Now he implores the doctor to save him. Then he begs to be killed and put out of pain. The extremities become icy. The pulse is small, feeble and frequent, and the breathing is labored, embarrassed and painful because of abdominal tenderness. The surface of the body becomes dark and of that bluish color that medical men call cyanosed. Violent cramps add their torture, exhaustion becomes collapse, convulsions or coma ensues, and death ends the agony. The torture lasts sometimes from five to twenty hours.

In some cases these symptoms occur, but in a modified form, and the doctor will apparently get the better of the disease. The remission will be but for a day or two. Then the abdomen will swell, and icy coldness will pervade the frame. Shivering will become pronounced trembling, then cramps, convulsions and death.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says:—"I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." Sold by Howard Gardner.

Oldbach—"I don't mind confessing that before you married your wife I proposed to her myself; she rejected me." Henpeckke—"Accept my sincere congratulations."

Sound mind in sound body is best condition for our highest achievements. Sound body depends on the liver and bowels performing regularly their proper function. Vick's Little Liver Pills correct irregularities and keep these organs in fine shape by this gentle, harmless aid.

Many a man's only object in life is to raise objections.

KATE CHASE IN POLITICS.

Beautiful Woman Who Managed Her Father's Ambition.

Hart's Life of Chief Justice Chase.

No account of Mr. Chase would be complete which ignored the remarkable connection of Kate Chase, later Mrs. Sprague, with her father's public life. Young, remarkably beautiful, regal and captivating, she made it her business in life to establish cordial relations with his political friends, and she was a gracious hostess for the hoppitality which her father enjoyed giving. Ambassadors, Senators and politicians were eager for her good will and willing to promise her aid, and Mrs. Lincoln had a battle royal with her for (as she said) coming to the receptions at the White House as a guest and holding court on her own account. She had a resolute purpose to bring about her father's nomination in 1864, and perhaps her influence held her father to his opposition to Lincoln. Indeed, this remarkable woman was generally considered to be a political force of magnitude, and she is the only woman in the history of the United States who has had such influence. She felt keenly indignant with Lincoln for letting her father leave the Treasury and jokingly accused Sumner on the day of the nomination of the Chief Justice of being in a plot to "shelve her father." The influence and spirit his daughter again held Chase up to his strife for the Presidency in 1868. She was virtually his manager in New York and competent judges have believed that had she been able to go into the convention and make her own combinations on the spot she would have secured his nomination.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They contain just the ingredients necessary to tone, strengthen and regulate the kidneys and bladder, and to cure backache. Sold by Howard Gardner.

CLOWNS FROM EVERY LAND.

Ringling Brothers Organize a World's Carnival of Jesters and Clowns.

Fifty of the world's leading clowns and buffoons are furnishing the comedy touches to Ringling Brothers' circus program this year. Never in history has such a representative collection of the world's funny men been seen in America. Most of these gay skylarkers are from Europe and Asia. They have been selected from the patomime companies of London's Drury Lane, from the opera comique organization of France, from the vaudeville stage of Germany, from the court jesters of Asiatic potentates, and from our own musical comedy stage. For a quarter of a century Ringling Brothers' clowns have been the originators of all things funny. This year they are making special efforts to heighten the incidental fun of the program. They are meeting with success.

At all times the arena is the scene of merry action. There are satires on public and political events, farces and skits of the richest kind of hilarity, dialect and character sketches and the cleverest kind of tomfoolery. The triple-extract of ridiculousness is uncorked at every pereformance with most beneficial results to the bodies and minds of the audience. The most sedate laugh as they haven't in years. Fat men shake like molded jelly, and the most dejected mopes exchange their frowns for grins that won't come off.

Al Miaco is at the top of the clown list. He is the dean of the time-honored profession of making people forget their troubles and look to the brighter things of life. His father and his grandfather before him were celebrated clowns and pantomimists. Miaco is the original Humpty Dumpty. He has made people laugh in every part of the world. Close up to him are Max Dilea, the human wind-mill; John Slater, the Weary Willy of Clownland; Johnny Flatts, a jack-pudding of note; Charlie Smith, the king of pickle-herrings; Red Roberts, the famous Dutch cut-up; the three Deltorellis, not long ago jesters to the shah of Persia; Billy Hart, the English mad-cap; Fred Jinks, of vaudeville fame in Europe and America, and Sunny Simpson, the cleverest grotesque knock-about that ever trod sawdust.

Then there is Al White. He belongs in a class by himself. He was for years associated with the late Neal Burgis. He is known as a free-lance because he works independently of the others. White's stunts come as a surprise to the audience. They believe he is a patron of the show until the performance is nearly over. Then it begins to dawn upon them that his funny experiences on the track are cleverly conceived bits of the show. Another clever free-lance is James Spriggs, the clown policeman. He is the first clown to enter the ring. From first to last he keeps the audience in roars of laughter. He is the prince of awkwardness. As a burlesque on the average city policeman his work is a classic.

Last but not least is famous old Jules Turnouer, who has recently come into additional fame as the hero of a true story written by Isaac F. Marcosson, one of the editors of the Saturday Evening Post, and a novelist of note. Jules has had a life of strange experiences. His story is creating a great deal of interest.

The big show will come to Greensboro on Monday, Oct. 24. It will begin the day with the longest and most novel parade that was ever seen in the city. There is a new menagerie and the performance under the main tent is presented by a company of 375 artists.

Ladies will serve you everything good to eat such as hot or cold oysters, fried chicken, chicken salad, hot coffee and tea and other things good to eat at the Episcopal booth at the fair grounds.

When visiting the fair this week call at the Episcopal booth for something good to eat.
